A London dispatch reports all Spain to be in a ferment and on the verge of a debacle. If this thing keeps up a little longer the debacle will probably get there before our fleet does.

The story that Spain was negotiating for and about to get possession of the Chilian cruiser, the O'Higgins, is settled by the official announcement that Chili doesn't intend to sell her.

Georgia has harvested this year the largest wheat crop in many years if not the largest ever harvested. This is a pretty sure sign that Georgia farmers are getting out of the woods.

Senator Peffer, of Kansas, has assumed a new role. This doesn't mean that he has shaved off his beard and is indulging in a bare-faced proceeding, but simply that he is trying to make Kansas as dry as he is hairy.

Senator Willington, of Maryland, is the most disgruntled man outside of Spain. He does'nt approve of a single thing that has been done since the war with Spain began. In this he is in perfect accord with the Spaniards.

Spanish soldiers once went to war on barbed steeds, now they war behind barbed wire, and most of it is doubtless yankee barbed wire. They will shortly have an object lesson, and see how soon our fellows will clip gaps in those wire fences.

Some of the papers are publishing pictures of some of our naval commanders showing how they looked thirty-five years ago. But the country isn't half as much interested in how they looked thirty-five years ago as in how they perform now.

The State entomologist of Georgia finds the San Jose scale present in large numbers in the orchards of that State. He says they can't be entirely extirpated, but may be prevented from doing much damage by spraying the trees in winter with kerosene and water, one part of oil to three of water, about a gill of kerosene to the tree.

The Mount Airy News, which is a capital paper, and would do credit to a much larger town than Mount Airy, entered on its eighteenth year this week. It deserves the appreciative support it has received.

HANOVER SEASIDE CLUB.

The New Club House Complete—Formal Opening Will Take Place Next Tuesday Night.

Hanover Seaside Club house is completed. It has been a quick piece of work and the executive committee speak most highly of the high class of workmanship which the contractor, Mr. L. H. Vollers, displayed.

The building will be formally accepted by the executive committee next Tuesday.

The building is ninety-two feet long by sixty wide. It is two stories high and the lower floor is completely surrounded by a piazza ten feet wide, making over 300 running feet of piazza. On the first floor is the ball room, dining room, kitchen, ladies' parlor and sitting room. Up stairs will be found the billiard hall, cafe, and sleeping rooms. Connected with the bath house is a bowling alley in a hall eighty-five by fifteen feet and running towards the sound.

A safety line for the use of bathers has been put in place. It is supplied with floaters so as to keep it constantly on top of the water. It will certainly be a very great safeguard. A splendid platform 120 feet long and from which one can step into the cars, has been built in front of the Club house. The building is equipped with two flagstaffs; from the main staff to-morrow the stars and stripes will float bravely. Ordinarily, however, the home flag will float from the main staff and the national colors from the side staff.

At a meeting of the executive committee, held Friday night, an invitation to take part in the opening festivities was extended to the Atlantic, Carolina and Sedgeley Hall clubs.

FOUR HOUSE-BREAKERS ARRESTED.

They Confess Committing Depredations at Mr. Ricaud's House.

Four colored boys have been arrested and are now in the city lock-up charged with breaking into the residence of A. G. Ricaud, Esq., Friday, as told in detail in yesterday's STAR. In fact, the boys confessed to the officers who made the arrests that they were guilty. It is believed that there are two or three others implicated in the affair, but the parties have not been arrested. Those in the lock-up are Sam Mackey, John Mackey, Bruce Morgan and Bill Newberry. They were arrested yesterday morning. Sergeant Hewlett and Policeman Woebse made the arrests.

Ocean View Patrol.

The committee which has arranged for the inauguration of the Ocean View Patrol has an advertisement in the STAR this morning calling the attention of contributors to the fund to the hours that the life saving crews will be on duty.

The crews have been on duty since about the middle of June and will look out for the safety of bathers until the end of the season. They afford far better protection than has ever before been enjoyed on Wrightsville Beach and those who enjoy surf bathing can indulge in the splendid recreation with the knowledge that strong men and expert boatmen are on watch waiting to haste to the rescue the moment they see a swimmer in distress. There are three boats placed at suitable intervals along the beach and two crews of three men each stationed at points where they can get to either boat with ease.

A Big Blow Out for Battery I.

Sergeant P. Harrigan, of Battery I, Fort Caswell, arrived in the city yesterday on a pleasant mission. He was after some good things to eat. As he put it, he was getting ready to give the boys a "blow out" on the Fourth. The best that could be found was what he was after, and he didn't spare any pains in getting it either. The boys of Battery I may expect plenty of good things to eat on the Fourth.

The First Stamped Bill of Lading.

Warren's Bakery claims the credit of having received the first stamped bill of lading in Wilmington and perhaps in the State. It was from the Seacoast Railroad for two baskets of bread shipped to Messrs. W. A. Sanders and W. H. Stokely, and it was issued at 6 A. M. Mr. Warren thinks it unlikely that his claim will be disputed.

Found a Carrier Pigeon.

Friday night between 9 and 10 o'clock Mr. W. A. Spencer found a carrier pigeon in the yard at his residence on Harnett street. The bird's feet were netted with hair which seemed to prevent its flying. A band about its leg was marked "K." and bore the number 29482. Mr. Spencer has the pigeon in his possession and will keep it unless claimed by the owner.

To Command the Nantucket.

The Washington correspondent of the Raleigh Post, writing Friday, says: "Senator Pritchard called at the Navy Department to-day and secured a promise to detail Mr. Morton, of the Naval Reserves, to command the Nantucket."

On account of the Baptist Young People's Union, Buffalo, N. Y., July 14-17, the S. A. L. will sell round trip tickets to Buffalo at one first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets to be sold July 11th, 12th and 13th, with final limit July 20th. Extension of final limit may be obtained to leave Buffalo August 3rd, 1898, for 50 cents additional fee.

The Carolina Yacht Club's regatta over the club's course in the banks channel will be one of the most interesting performances in celebration of the Fourth. The regatta committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Van B. Metts and Geo. Harriss Jr., have made all arrangements for the successful sailing of the regatta.

The course will be six miles, and the start will be made at 5:30 P. M. The judges have not yet been selected. The yachts which had been entered with Mr. J. Van B. Metts, chairman of the Regatta Committee, up to 2 o'clock yesterday, are:

Sprite—A. E. Peschau.
Bubble—Norwood Giles.

Ripple—George Chadbourn.
Mist—C. G. Elliott.

At a recent meeting of the governing board, the courtesies of the club for the Fourth of July were extended to all three of the other clubs—Atlantic, Sedgeley Hall and Hanover Seaside.

The Carolina Canoe Club races give much promise of interest. The start will be at 3 P. M. The canoes and their respective captains are as follows:

Micmac, Capt. B. H. Bridgers; Dolphin, Capt. L. Hall; Little Rob, Capt. Geo. Davis; Nell Eltie, Capt. Geo. Chadbourn; Four Brothers, Capt. R. N. Sweet; Susie, Capt. Geo. Parsley; Reckless, Capt. Lewis Davis; Sallie, Capt. Willie Grant; Hephzibar, Capt. Neil D. Emerson.

There will be music and dancing at Seashore Hotel and the Atlantic and Carolina Yacht Clubs, as well as at the pavilion. It is claimed that no pyrotechnical display ever given in the State has exceeded the one for to-morrow evening at Ocean View beach. There will be twenty trains to the beach during the day. For particulars see schedule.

will be a place of many attractions. A convenient schedule will be observed by the steamer Wilmington which will be in charge of Concordia Castle No. 1. Knights of the Golden Eagle. Capt. Harper will be courteous and accommodating, as he always is.

There will be music on the boat and on the beach by the Wilmington String Band and there will be a suitable string band for those who wish to dance. The amusements that have been devised by the Knights are almost too numerous to mention. There will be a chicken dispute, a bicycle race, perhaps a horse race, and the famous race of the greasy pig. Not only this, but a target match between the Light Infantry and the Naval Reserves will be one of the most interesting features.

Sedgeley Hall will observe Independence Day with great patriotism. There will be music for dancing all day and at night the festivities will be closed with a big ball. During the day there will be a boat race in the surf in front of the club house that will be highly amusing. The courtesies of the club have been extended to all three of the other clubs.

The tide of people to Carolina Beach for the Fourth started yesterday, as a good part of the Carolina Central passengers were bound for that beach, and the tug Buck made a special trip yesterday afternoon to carry down a party of passengers from the Atlantic Coast Line.

DR. McMILLAN'S REPORT.

Health and Sanitary Conditions in Wilmington as Reflected in the Health Office.

The monthly report of Dr. W. D. McMillan as Superintendent of Health shows 37 deaths in the city—11 white and 26 colored. It is of interest to note that among the colored deaths was a centenarian named Nancy Marshall. There were eighteen births, five white and thirteen colored.

Thirty-four permits for the removal of earth were issued. Four cases of typhoid fever were reported. The sanitary report shows 4,369 inspections made. Of these 2,830 premises were reported in a fair condition, 996 in bad condition and 543 condemned but not cleaned; 305 special inspections were made and 314 orders for lime and 143 for acid were issued.

TORPEDO BOAT TALBOT.

Undergoing Repairs at Skinner's Ship Yard—Will Probably be Ready to Sail Monday Night.

The torpedo boat Talbot will probably not get away from here before Monday night. Her damages from running into the dock at Southport are not serious, consisting merely of a bent stem and sprung bowplates; but as it was thought best to put the boat on the marine railway at Capt. S. W. Skinner's ship yard for repairs, more time will be consumed than would otherwise be required. Capt. Skinner will have a force of hands at work on the boat all of to-day and to-morrow so as to cause as little delay as possible.

The Talbot was built by the Herreschoffs, at Bristol and has been in commission for about four months. She carries two torpedo tubes, one 1 pounder, and a full supply of small arms for the crew of thirteen men. She has cabins for three officers, though at present Lieut. Shoemaker is the only officer on board. The Talbot is considerably smaller than either of the torpedo boats that were here last Fall, registering only about fifty tons.

Lieut. Shoemaker says torpedo boats are as fragile as egg-shells. There were four of them which left Newport, R. I., within forty-eight hours of each other, and the Gwin, which proceeded yesterday to Charleston on her way to Key West, is the only one thus far that has escaped injuries. The Morris suffered an accident to her cylinder head and had to put into New York for repairs, and the McKee got her engines disabled and was obliged to stop at Norfolk.

Confederate Veterans.

The Confederate veterans hope to send at least twenty of their number to the Confederate reunion, to be held in Atlanta July 20th to 23rd. Commander Geo. W. Huggins, of Cape Fear Camp, U. C. V., has appointed the following named delegates and alternates to represent the camp:

Delegates—Rev. Jas. Carmichael, D. D., Chas. W. Yates, Dr. Jas. C. Shepard, Chas. H. King, Jesse Wilder, Reuben A. Corbett and F. H. Mitchell; alternates—F. W. Kerchner, L. S. Belden, O. M. Fillyaw, P. Heinsberger, Jno. R. Marshall, Geo. W. Huggins and Jas. I. Metts.

All of these are requested to call on the commander and get their certificates.

Died in Fayetteville.

Telegrams received here yesterday forenoon from Fayetteville announced the death of Mrs. M. F. Cook, which occurred at 5.45 o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was about 75 years of age. Her daughter, Miss Nellie Cook, of the Union public school faculty of this city, and also Mrs. F. A. Johnson, of this city, sister of the deceased, were at her bedside when death came. The remains will be interred to-day. The deceased has many relatives and friends in Wilmington, who regret exceedingly the passing of this noble life.

A game of base ball was played yesterday afternoon between the Chesnut street boys and Master Louis Orrell's team. The former were the winners by a score of 10 to 2.

There was good playing by both teams.

He is enthusiastic over the Summer School and says he can confidently state that there is not a better corps of teachers anywhere than those engaged at the University Summer School. Joynes, of South Carolina; Apgar, of New Jersey; Claxton, of the State Normal and Industrial at Greensboro; and Moses of graded school fame Prof. Noble named among the prominent educators now at Chapel Hill.

Postmaster W. H. Chadbourn is in receipt of a supply of the new series of postage stamps issued in honor of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha. Some of the two-cent stamps which bear a beautiful engraving, entitled "Farming in the West," were placed on sale yesterday. All denominations up to 10 cents can be bought to-morrow.

The engravings, a complete list of which appeared in the STAR of Sunday, June 26th, are very handsome and the stamps are in every way very pretty.

FOR MURDERING HIS WIFE.

A Private in Capt. Cobb's Company Arrested—Romulus Bazemoore from Bertie —Sheriff Notified.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., July 2.—This afternoon the police arrested a member of the Second regiment, charged with the murder of his wife. He enlisted two weeks ago in Captain Cobb's company, giving his name as John Moore, home near Aulander, in Bertie county. He was identified by another Bertie man in another company, and his real name is Romulus Bazemoore. His wife was poisoned in May and he disappeared. Her stomach was examined at John Hopkins and was found to contain more strychnine than was necessary to kill. Moore is thirty-three years old. He is now in the station house. He admitted his real name to Mayor Russ, but puts in a general denial, says he bought medicine for his wife. An eight-year-old daughter saw him give the medicine. Bertie's sheriff has been notified. The arrest caused excitement at Camp Russell.

Back from Greensboro.

Capt. W. P. Monroe, Chief of the Fire Department, returned last night from Greensboro, where he went to attend the exhibition given by the Greensboro Department, they having just put in service one of the latest Babcock aerial trucks, made by S. F. Hayward & Co., of New York, which was tested and proved to be satisfactory in every respect.

Chief Monroe was so unfortunate as to get mixed up in a collision between a road cart, in which he was riding, and and a hose wagon. He was not injured, but his companion, Mr. Corl, of the Greensboro Department, had his collar-bone broken. The accident occurred during a highly creditable test of the Greensboro Department. Captain Monroe speaks in the highest terms of the Greensboro Department, their Chief, J. J. Stone, and the many courtesies shown him while their guest.

Colored Recruits Needed.

Lieut. A. J. Walker has written a letter to Rev. J. A. Bonner, requesting him to call a meeting at the City Hall to-morrow night for the purpose of recruiting the colored company up to the full strength. About forty able bodied men are needed. The recruits will leave for Fort Macon about Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

Olive Canning Factory.

Mr. Sol. J. Jones, the manager of the Olive Canning Factory of East Wilmington, was in the city yesterday. He says that the factory will open about July 15th. As the crop this year is larger than usual, the factory will do more business than it did last year, unless the present high prices of raw tomatoes hold up.

For the Seashore.

The Seaboard Air Line brought in the largest crowd of the season yesterday on its low Saturday rates. There were about two hundred in all, and they were in a hurry to get to the seashore. The reduced rates on the Atlantic Coast Line and the C. F. and Y. V. brought in a good many over those lines also.

To City Subscribers.

City subscribers are earnestly requested to report promptly at the STAR office every failure of the carriers to deliver their papers. In all such cases steps will be taken to insure promp and regular delivery.

For $6 you can go to Washington City and return, or for $3 to Norfolk and Old Point and return. Don't forget the date, Tuesday, July 19, when Pipkin's excursion will start from Wilmington at 8:30 A. POLITICS AND PATRIOTISM.

We would not like to assert that President McKinley is actuated more by political than patriotic considerations in the conduct of this war for we might do him an injustice; if we did assert it we might subject ourselves to the suspicion of being influenced by politics in making the assertion, and we neither wish to do the President injustice nor to subject ourselves to an unjust suspicion. But however it may be as to Mr. McKinley, it is unfortunately the fact that they who are near him and are supposed to speak for him are doing all they can to make political capital for the Republican party out of the war, and the President cannot escape being held either directly or indirectly responsible for their acts and utterances.

It would be too much, perhaps, to expect that politics would not figure in it at all, and it would be too much to expect that in the appointments made to military positions more or less preference would not be shown to men in accord with the party in power; but this discrimination has been entirely too great both as to the politics of the men appointed and as to the sections from which the appointments have been made. The President's own State has received appointments in excess of any other State and entirely out of all proportion to its just share, assuming that competent persons could be found in other States—which is not an unreasonable assumption. The West and the South have neither received anything like the proportion they are entitled to on a fair distribution, assuming, also, that competent persons could be found in those sections—which is not an unreasonable assumption. As an illustration we clip the following from the Philadelphia Ledger, an independent paper politically, but friendly to the Administration and a loyal supporter of measures to prosecute the war. It is not a carper, but an honest critic, which thus comments on the appointment of inexperienced men, who have a political pull, to responsible positions where experience is absolutely necessary. It says:

"President McKinley was a major in the civil war. Secretary Alger had attained a general's rank. Both, therefore, had practical experience in military matters, and should know something about the business of raising and equipping an army. They should have known better than to put untried civilians in important positions in the quartermaster and commissary departments, merely because sordid Senators and Representatives asked them to do so, when they could have found plenty of veterans familiar with those duties and able to perform them without the blunders and costly delays of which we have heard so much since the army began to assemble."

It is needless to say that the large majority of these appointments, if not all, were political, that the men who were appointed were Republicans, whose appointments were sought and pressed by "sordid Senators and Representatives" to favor friends or to pay for political services rendered or expected. This speaks of the commissary department, and as a result of that political favoritism the army was seriously hampered in its movements, and the men in it suffered for many things the needed through the bungling in getting things shipped to them tracks for several days when much meat and other perishable stuff was spoiled, as was the case at Tampa. That was blundering as the result of blundering political appointments promptly delivered instead of laying in the cars switched off on side-

But politics figure in another way, where there is no effort to conceal it, and where it does gross injustice to the Democratic party not only in the assumption that the Republican party is bearing the whole responsibility and burden of the war, but in attributing unjust motives to the Democratic Representatives in Congress, by virtually charging them with the intent of obstructing the war for partisan purposes. Hon. Chas. H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, occupies such a position and bears such intimate relations to the President that he has the reputation of being Mr. McKinley's mouthpiece. He made a speech in the Ohio State convention in which, speaking of the war, he delivered himself thus:

"There came to the administration of William McKinley a responsibility never dreamed of when he was elected President. The mutterings of the coming storm began to be heard across the Gulf of Mexico almost upon the threshold of his administration. He found a country unfitted for war, incapable of war, incapable of a respectable effort at war; and he very early found a body of men in the country, and largely in Congress, who were willing to gain a little early bird stolen sentiment in favor of rushing to war, without the intelligence to know whether we were ready to go; without the intelligence to know what we were going to war for.

'And if you will notice the passage of the fifty million war emergency bill in Congress, it marks the last echo of patriotism of nine out of every ten of those gentlemen. They were willing to gain some sort of popularity before the people of the country by shouting about the suffering reconcentrados of Cuba. But when the money has been asked for for the suffering soldiers of the Union, nine out of ten of them have voted 'No' on every appropriation bill.

"They were willing to demand that the President should send his army and his ships to bombard Havana, but when they have been asked to raise the money to carry on the war, all but six of them in the House, and all but eight of them in the Senate, voted 'No' upon every proposition."

This is what the Washington Post, an independent paper politically, but a strong supporter of the war policy of the administration, calls "a bad break." It was not only a bad break but a baseless and a scandalous attack on the Representatives of the Democratic party for base partisan purposes, and at a time, too, when Democrats were responding to the calls for troops, without ever thinking about politics or of the claims that the Republican leaders and organs would make when our armies triumphed and peace came.

Following this slanderous speech came the following declaration incorporated in the platform adopted by that convention:

In the near future important problems will arise out of the war in which the nation is now engaged. Among other things will be the disposition to be made of conquered territory. The people can safely leave the wise and patriotic solution of these great questions to a Republican President and a Republican Congress.

If politics was not uppermost in the minds of the men who drafted this declaration, why not say the people could trust the settlement to the President and to Congress without qualifying it with the prefix Republican, as if Republicans alone could wisely or patriotically settle the problems that may arise. This was merely equivalent to saying that Democrats are either not competent enough or not patriotic enough to solve such problems.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, is also a Republican high in the party councils, and also a representative of the administration, although his relations with the President are not as close as those of Gen. Grosvenor. In his speech before the convention which renominated him for Congress he thus echoed the slanders of Grosvenor before the Ohio Republican convention.

As soon as we were actually plunged into war, its energetic and successful conduct required money to carry it on —and a large amount for the reason, first, that modern ships and guns and engines of war are more powerful and expensive than any known in any previous war; and second, that for the first time in our history we are compelled to carry on war against a country separated from us by great oceans.

To provide ways and means to meet war expenditures, it became necessary not only to impose special taxes, to which resort is had only in time of war, but also to authorize the government to borrow whatever additional sums might be required, and to issue its promises to pay the amounts borrowed with interest—in other words, to issue bonds of certificates of indebtedness.

When this measure came before both House and Senate, at once the same Chicago platform Democracy, who had been so fierce to plunge us into war before we were ready, began to oppose so much of it as provided for borrowing and paying what we desired to borrow, with interest. Imitating the celebrated Ensign Stobbins, they were for war, but practically opposed to providing adequate means for carrying it on in the only way open to us, after we had applied available taxation. They plumed themselves on their readiness to vote appropriations, and voted against the war revenue bill which provided the ways and means to pay the appropriations. They declaimed against the bloated bondholder, and opposed 'mortgaging the future,' but were never able to show how the government, any more than an individual, could borrow money without engaging to pay what was borrowed, with interest for its use.

"But in spite of the nearly solid opposing votes of those Democrats who swear by the Chicago platform, the votes of the solid Republicans and of the sound money Democrats provided the means to carry on the war; and a patriotic people rejoice."

He was somewhat more guarded than Grosvenor, but not a whit the less vicious or slanderous, because he misrepresented the Democrats in Congress and attributed false motives to their action.

The elections will come off in the Fall and the Republican politicians are putting in their work to influence public opinion and are working the war for all it is worth, while patriots are standing by the Government and the army and the navy and are relegating politics until the battles are won.

MINOR MENTION.

The Spaniards have, from time to time, made serious objection to the American way of fighting. They objected to Admiral Dewey's unceremonious way of paying his respects to that fleet at Manila before the Spanish officers had preformed their morning ablutions or breakfasted. They object, also, to the breach of courtesy shown by our naval commanders in bombarding forts without previously giving them notice so that they might get out of the way of the projectiles. Pretty soon they will begin to object to the way our fellows have of fighting on land, who persist in pushing on in the face of a heavy fire, when they are expected to break and run. They can't make any calculations on how to fight men who thus fight in utter contempt of the Spanish methods of procedure. One of the prisoners captured in the fight with the Rough Riders last week told what he thought of it thus:

"They did not fight as other soldiers. When we fired a volley they advanced. The more we fired the nearer they came. We are not used to fighting men who act so."

Doubtless they were not prepared for anything like that and therefore the conduct of our fellows was a great disappointment to them. It surprises them, too, when our men rush upon fortifications defended by heavy guns and go right along as if there was no shooting going on. On the whole it isn't surprising that they seriously object to this way of fighting. It is entirely too American.

A press dispatch to some of the Northern papers several days ago from Concord announced that the movement inaugurated by W. C. Coleman, a progressive colored citizen of that place, to establish a cotton factory, to be operated by colored people, had fallen through. This statement has been emphatically denied by Coleman in a letter published in the Charlotte News, in which he says he is making steady progress, and that the prospects of success were never brighter than now. He has been at work on this scheme for some time, and is a man of much energy and perseverance, but as the means to carry it out are mainly looked for from colored people it is not to be expected that it will progress very rapidly, for the bulk of the subscriptions must be in small amounts. We, in common with a great many white people in this State, have watched the progress of this movement with interest as it will open a new field for the colored people, and will show their ability to manage and operate industrial enterprises in which they have heretofore had but little experience, and but little opportunity to show what may be in them. Coleman is a successful business man, who by thrift, good management and industry has accumulated considerable wealth. He has perseverance too, and there is little doubt, that if the colored people co-operate with him that this scheme will be a success. He also so commands the confidence of his white fellow citizens, that if he should seek and find them there are many who take a friendly interest in this movement who would liberally respond.

We haven't wheat on the brain, but if we had it would be a pretty good thing to have. We have a very high respect for wheat, however, and this is one of the reasons why we occasionlaly pay our respects to it in these columns; in addition to which we are sure it would be a great thing for the farmers of North Carolina, and for the State, if much more attention were given to the cultivation of wheat than there has been. We have recently quoted, with such comment as they suggested, extracts from our exchanges showing what had been done by some of our farmers in various sections of the State in wheat culture. The following we clip from the Asheville Citizen showing what has been accomplished, by good culture, on "worn out land" in the "Land of the sky:"

EDITOR THE CITIZEN:—About one year ago I wrote several articles that were published in the Citizen advocating certain improved methods for growing wheat. I am glad to report that several enterprising farmers have adopted those methods in entire and some in parts, and I am pleased to say all made a success.

In November, 1896, there came into my possession what is known as the Redmon farm, three miles from Asheville, on the Leicester road. This farm is said to be one of the poorest in the county. It has been worn out for many years; yet the owners continued to scratch away, vainly trying to make a living.

The last year it was in wheat the entire yield was 21 bushels. The year before I got the farm there was cultivated on it about 25 acres in corn and the yield was an average of two bushels per acre of merchantable corn.

I went to work by sowing cow-peas in June, 1897, plowed some down in Fall and smoothed the ground with harrow and proceeded to sow wheat November 3rd, using one bushel per acre and 200 pounds acid phosphate and 100 pounds kanit. The work was done with "Buckeye" drill. Harvesting was begun on June 16, 1898. The threshing was done on June 25, and the total yield was 365 bushels, on 23 acres.

The wheat was marketed at once and the profit was a handsome one after playing all expenses, including the cost of seed drill.

I will say that the wheat was of very fine quality, testing 61 pounds per bushel.

I also had 8 acres of good average land that yielded 23 bushels per acre.

Yours,
W. E. LOGAN.

Here is a "worn out" farm, which would not produce more than one or two bushels of wheat or corn to the acre, brought up in a couple years so that it produces nearly 17½ bushels of wheat to the acre. Isn't this proof positive of the recuperative power of the soil of this State under proper methods? and also proof that there is no such thing as really "worn out" land in it? and also proof of the truth of the Arkansas poet who wrote "There is more in the man than in the lan'?

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at R. R. BELLAMY'S Drug Store. †

About two years ago a travelling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by R. R. BELLAMY, druggist. †

FRENCH BLACK AND WHITE FOULARD GOWN FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

BLACK and white, which still holds its popularity, is the combination in a graceful costume of foulard—white patterned with black, and trimmed with lace and black velvet.

The skirt has three shaped flounces. The one at the foot is quite narrow directly in front, slightly wider at the sides, and slopes gradually higher toward the back, its fulness slightly trailing behind. On the front one flounce describes one side of a long apron, and when it reaches the bottom becomes a part of the lower ruffle. The upper end gradually tapers toward the waist, where it is fastened just below the black velvet belt by a French rosette, which is composed of pointed ends of velvet ribbon inserted airily between double bows, and held by a jetted buckle. A similar rosette fastens the second ruffle, which curves below the other at a graceful distance. It is a Paris fancy to use several flounces arranged in this manner on one side of the skirt, making a line of four or five rosettes. The ruffles are each headed by a narrow bias fold of white satin foulard, of which also the foundation skirt is composed. The skirt is a six-gored model, three and one half yards in width.

White silk muslin, the fabric of the season, is used for the full waist under a little square jacket of black lace over white silk. Three circular ruffles form revers and surmount the close tailor sleeve, which is trimmed with a narrow circular ruffle from wrist to elbow. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only from the cut paper patterns published by HARPER'S BAZAR, where they appear.

Quantity of material for gown—Foulard, 13 yards; black lace, 1 yard; velvet ribbon, 3½ yards; silk muslin, ¼ yard.

"I SHALL BE SATISFIED."

Not always can I feel the Savior's guiding
Or hear Him speaking words of cheer the while;
Not always does the sunlight seem abiding
As when I see His tender, loving smile.
But some bright day when I from earth shall sever,
That wondrous smile on me shall then abide;
And then from out His presence wand'ring never—
"I shall be satisfied."

Sometimes how rough the way; dark shadows bending
Above my weary head as on I go
Life's toilsome journey, slowly, sadly, wending,
The thorns of grief encompass me below.
A little while my heart with pain shall quiver,
A little while by sterile woe be tried,
When I awake beyond the silent river—
"I shall be satisfied."

All doubts at rest, all mournful discord banished;
All trivial strife and disappointment o'er;
With those beloved, long from earth's fireside vanished,
Safe in the Father's home forever more.
Tempted no more on wordly crowns to ponder
Nor to forget Him who for me hath died,
When I behold Him in the light up yonder—
"I shall be satisfied."

SUNDAY SELECTIONS.

Truth in the Bible is an orchard rather than a museum, says Drummond. Necessity makes us go to the museum, but only fruit-bearers grow in the orchard.

— "If, instead of a gem or even a flower, we would cast the gift of a lovely thought into the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels must give."

— Let us then be what we are, and speak what we think, and in all things keep ourselves loyal to truth and the sacred professions of friendship.—Longfellow's Evangeline.

— As long as any body of Christians believe that they stand for some distinctive truth of God, so long is it their duty to adhere to and propagate that truth.—Christian Index.

— The pivotal point of character is fidelity. He who is unfaithful to his intellectual or moral convictions degrades himself to the level of a coward and forges for himself shackles which all time will not suffice to wear away.

— When I try to make myself an infidel, I fancy I feel the hand of my mother on my head, and her voice sounding in my ear as she taught me to say, "Our Father who art in heaven."—John Randolph.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at R. R. Lewis Carroll's Grave.

The grave stands almost on the very crest of a ridge which commands a glorious panorama of some of the finest scenery in the south of England. Deep down below you, as in a cup, lie the red roofs of Guildford, the winding river, the crumbling remains of the ancient castle, beneath whose ivy covered walls nestles The Chestnuts, where the Hodgsons live. It is almost in a bee line with us, and even at this distance it is easy to pick it out from among its neighbors by the white blinds still down. Away beyond lies London. In the misty middle distance, on the somber clad heights, looms the church of St. Martha's, where once Canterbury pilgrims lingered. To the right the downs stretch as far as eye can see. It is a gray day and dull enough, with a wintry wind whistling weirdly among the churchyard shrubs, when views and prospects are least appreciated, and yet one lingers by this grave of Lewis Carroll long after priests and surpliced choir have wended their way down the hill again. How lovely must be the scene in the summer sunshine or bathed in the light of the harvest moon!—London News.

Not Disturbed.

Nassau William Senior, the English political economist, was a frequent guest of Lord Lansdowne at Lansdowne House, and on one occasion was busily writing, quite abstracted as usual, in a room full of company when Tom Moore was singing. The scratch of his pen was not an agreeable accompaniment, and at last one of the company asked very politely, "You are not fond of music, Mr. Senior?" "No," he replied; "but it does not disturb me in the least. Pray go on."—Argonaut.

THE ROAD.

Pray, whither leads the road, fair heart?
Say, whither leads the road?
Across a rill, around a hill,
Beside a dell where rivers start,
Where bending nut trees shed their load.
Oh, thither leads the road, dear heart,
Oh, thither leads the road!

What matter where the road may lead,
So thou and I together go.
Companionship is all our need,
Division all our woe.

The pine tree tall on yonder hill
For years has watched the passerby,
When he is dust, we shall be still
Together, thou and I.

How hushed the afternoon! I dare
Not whisper love, but send the thought
In speechless message. All the air
In silence thrall is caught.

Oh, these are God reared trees! How soft
The wind dreams round their tall heads creep!
The drowsy leaves that doze aloft
Stir like a child in sleep.

Young autumn's fire begins to burn
The brands to hurl at winter's brow.
The sun wood leaves sigh low and turn
To crimson on the bough.

Pray, whither leads the road, fair heart?
Say, whither leads the road?
Across a rill, around a hill,
Beside a dell where rivers start,
Where bending nut trees shed their load.
Oh, thither leads the road, my heart,
Oh, thither leads the road!

—John Albert Macy in Chap Book.

AN ANIMATED PICTURE.

At Least the Other Women Said She Wanted to Be Stared At.

This girl had the nickel between her pretty lips before she stepped aboard the car at the corner of Eleventh and F streets. The nickel was probably part of her shopping change. Her hands and arms were filled with bundles and packages, and she had no doubt converted her inviting mouth into a car fare receptable before leaving the last emporium she visited. Even after she found a seat she made no move to remove the nickel from its enviable lodgment. She was too busy counting her packages and bundles, to see if she had lost any, probably.

The conductor as the girl got aboard had scowled when he observed the nickel resting between her pearly teeth, for conductors are prosaic. With the coin still showing its shiny rim between her lips—a delightful effect of silver and coral in combination—the girl looked up winsomely in the eyes of the conductor when he approached her for her fare. The conductor held out his hand with a pretty short, "Fare, miss!"

The girl very carefully set each and every one of her bundles and packages in the space beside her, smiling vaguely the while. When both of her hands were free, she drew a tiny, spotless lace handkerchief from the lizard skin bag hanging from her girdle. Then she took the 5 cent piece from between her lips, wiped and polished it carefully with the handkerchief and, with the prettiest grimace in the world, dropped it into the now apologetic paw of the conductor. The conductor smiled, and so did all of the man passengers on the car.

The woman passengers murmured to each other that the pretty girl had only done the thing "for effect."—Washington Post.

Scientific Farming.

An agricultural editor of Chicago made a trip into southern California where he confidently expected to astonish the natives with his superior knowledge of scientific and successful farming. He had stretched things considerably one evening with a view to making a stronger impression, when one of the old residents, who spoke slowly and had a squint in his right eye, took charge of the conversation.

"I s'pose you hain't heerd o' my peach brandy orchi'd, mister. I reckon that's 'bout sci'ntific as anything you been tellin us 'bout. I got a certain way o' treatin them trees so that I tap 'em in th' spring, jest same's you do a maple tree, an by bottlin up th' sap fur six months I have th' fines' peach brandy you ever put down your swallow. That's kerect, an I have a neighbor as kinder lays over me in farmin. He's 'sperimented an derveloped a punkin pie punkin. He tangled up milkweed, sugar cane, eggplant, water cress an some spice plants till he got th' thing to suit th' taste, an now all you have ter do is to bile th' fruit an make your crust. He's got more boardin house orders than he kin fill in 1,000 years. Jest now I'm turnin my 'tention to th' raisin o' apple dumplin's, an I think by nex' year I kin"—

But here the agricultural editor gasped for breath and the old resident called another old resident to help get the visitor to his hotel.—Detroit Free Press.

QUEER RELIGIOUS SECT.

Their Name Is "Evening Light," and They Keep to Themselves.

There is a sect known as the "Evening Light" scattered throughout Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. The families are not isolated, but form communities. No one is really leader, but in each community there always is a man who is looked up to. Although nearly all are well to do, no attempt at display is ever made. The homes are in one story houses, built about a house where the sect meet on Sundays. Where they have no meeting house they meet in the homes of the families, each in turn. They have no ministers. Each member of the sect says and does what he considers best for the community. When they meet at one of the homes, the host always has ready a good meal.

This sect wear peculiar clothing. The women make all the men's clothes. When the baby boy's dresses are taken from him, he is clothed in the garb he is to wear for life. They wear trousers reaching to the ankles and boots to the knees. A waistcoat and a hat complete the outfit, except in cold weather, when an overcoat is added. Only heavy brown or black material is used in making the clothes of the men.

The young women dress in either black or bright blue and use no trimmings. Their aprons are always brown. Cashmere is the cloth used for dresses. The bonnet is after the sunbonnet style and has a skirt in the rear. Brown and black satin is used to make them. To keep out the cold of winter the women wear black cashmere shawls.

There are no barbers in the community. The hair is allowed to grow. These people never take part in politics, never go to court and don't have photographs taken. They never insure their property, and if one should lose his the others start him anew. The parents match the children as soon as they are born, and they are brought up in each other's company and are made to understand that they are to marry and always live together after they leave their homes. Children stay with their parents until they marry. The marriage ceremony consists of the bridegroom putting a ring on the bride's finger and then both drinking holy water. A big dinner is served, and in the course of it the young couple leave it and go to their home, which they find all ready. Where this sect originated is not known. The men are very fond of horses.—New York Press.

Quick Fingers.

The dexterity of a modern virtuoso's fingers made a deep impression on an old farmer who was among the audience at a "piano recital." Clapping both hands suddenly down upon his knees, he was heard to exclaim, "I'd give $100 to have that man pick peas for me!"—Troy Times.

ARTISTIC DINNER GIVING.

The Ideal Dinner Has a Simple Menu and a Perfect Service.

The ideal dinner company is never large. Six has been said to be the magic number, but eight and even ten are perfectly manageable, both in the matter of smooth service and in the higher harmonies. Do not confine your choice to intimate friends, but add to their pleasure and your own the fresh experience of meeting new spirits, whose congeniality you have divined.

A really artistic dinner, it is the writer's conviction, should never exceed four courses, including the coffee. The scheme of the dinner is that each dish shall be perfect, worthy of the palate and of the appetite, enjoyed to the full for its merits, and not trifled with and instantly forgotten. The second point in importance is that a dish shall be as attractive in appearance as it is perfect in flavor, that it should be placed upon the table as an added enjoyment and hospitably served by host or hostess. The third point, also of importance, is that a dinner should be seasonable—not an anticipation of seasons—for every chosen article should be at its very best. A lean, half shriveled January tomato, which has lill borne its travels, is but a forlorn apology for the plump and luscious summer product—certainly not fitted for an "artistic" appearance.—Ella Morris Kretschmar in Women's Home Companion.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.,
Nov. 12, 1897.

H. E. Thompson, West End, N. C.:

DEAR SIR:—A month ago you sent me a box of the Jackson Springs Water—twelve bottles. You know how fearfully I was suffering with an acute bladder trouble some weeks before. When I reached home I found the water awaiting me. I have rested and drank that water. I am a new man—my old self practically; my appetite restored; and the tenderness in the bladder has disappeared. I think it is a wonderful water. I had been using for weeks before all sorts of lithia water, but the Jackson Springs Water went to the spot.

With profound gratitude, I am,
Yours. Respectfully, &c.,
CALVIN S. BLACKWELL.

The Doctor further says, it is "the best, I think, God has let run out of the earth for afflicted humanity."

This Water is unsurpassed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Insomnia, Nervous Prostration, or any Kidney, Bladder or Stomach Trouble.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 3, 1898.

GEN. SHAFTER CABLES FOR MORE SURGEONS.

Casualties in Friday's Fight Under-estimated—Hospital Ship Relief to Be Sent Immediately to Santiago.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Owing to the many conflicting reports of the losses of the American troops in yesterday's engagement, it has been thought best by the War Department officials to make public the text of General Shafter's last dispatch, received this morning at 4 o'clock. It is as follows:

"Siboney, via Playa del Este, July 1st.—Adjutant General, Washington—I fear I have underestimated to-day's casualties. A large and thoroughly equipped hospital ship should be sent here at once to care for the wounded. The chief surgeon says he has use for forty more medical officers. The ship must bring a launch and boats for conveying the wounded. [Signed] SHAFTER,

"Major General Commanding."

To Care For the Wounded.

Immediately upon receiving General Shafter's telegram the Surgeon-General of the Army called on Van Reypen, the Surgeon-General of the Navy, and the two held a long consultation regarding the course to be taken. Fortunately the ambulance ship Solace is now in the vicinity of General Shafter's army and she will be utilized for any emergency cases which may arise. While the navy ship Solace is designated primarily for the use of the fleet, she will be put at the disposition of the army whenever that may be necessary, and the navy and the army ships will be used interchangeable. The Solace is fully as well adapted for treating the wounded as well as her sister ship of the army, and has accommodations for several hundred men. The last heard from the Solace she was at Guantanamo Bay, a short distance from the cable station from which the dispatches are sent.

Hospital Ship Relief.

Hurried preparations are being made by the War Department to send to General Shafter the assistants in the medical department which he asked for to attend to the needs of the wounded as a result of yesterday's battle. The hospital ship Relief, which has been undergoing a thorough overhauling at New York, is about ready to start for Santiago. She was scheduled to have sailed yesterday, but owing to some delay was unable to get off at that time and will leave to-day.

The Relief has been fitted out in an admirable manner for the treatment of the sick and wounded and every comfort possible will be provided for the unfortunates. There is a surgeon in charge with a full corps of competent assistants and a complete outfit for surgical work in cases where this is necessary. Accommodations for probably five hundred persons have been provided, and in addition there has been installed in the ship a carbonating plant and an ice manufacturing apparatus which has facilities for making a great deal more than is needed aboard ship. The surplus will be utilized in supplying the hospitals ashore in the immediate vicinity of the ships. Of course the greater number of cases of sickness and wounds primarily will be treated in the regimental and the division hospitals, while the Relief will be utilized to a great extent in bringing back to the United States such cases of convalescents and the more serious cases of sickness which it is felt should be brought here for treatment.

GENERAL PANDO'S FORCES

Reported to Have Been Called Back to Manzanillo—Garcia Says They Have Entered Santiago.

[Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.]

MONTEGO BAY, Island of Jamaica, July 1, 10.30 P. M.—(Delayed in transmission)—A Cuban messenger from the insurgents near Manzanillo, province of Santiago de Cuba, who landed near here to-day from a small boat, brought the intelligence that the Spanish troops, numbering about 8,000 men, which left Manzanillo on June 23rd to march to Santiago, were called back by General Pando. It appears that when the army had reached the vicinity of Bayamo Gen. Pando was not with the troops, as had been reported. He was and is in Havana.

The relieving army, the Cuban says, was not supplied with food and the roads are almost impassable and the artillery could not be dragged along them. Thus, getting to Santiago in time to succor the garrison there appeared to be impossible, hence the recall of the troops.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A special dispatch from Playa del Este to the Evening World quotes General Garcia as authority for the statement that General Pando has entered Santiago with 6,000 soldiers, reinforcing General Linares.

General Pando left Manzanillo on June 22d with 8,000 or 9,000 men and a large train of provisions and ammunition.

ADMIRAL CAMARA'S SQUADRON.

The Spanish Ships Engaged in Coaling Near Port Said.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, July 2.—Lloyds' agent at Port Said, telegraphing at 4.30 P. M. to-day, says the Spanish fleet is anchored outside Egyptian waters and is engaged in coaling.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The following bulletin was posted at the State Department in regard to Admiral Camara's fleet this afternoon:

"Spanish ships Colon and Corondonga entered the Suez Canal yesterday. The rest, with exception of one, repairing, left harbor, coaling from their transports. [Signed] WATTS."

Watts, the sender of this telegram is the deputy consul of Cairo, who has been at Port Said for several days observing the operations of the Spanish fleet. The two ships reported as having entered the canal are not of much consequence as fighting machines and are not calculated to cause any special trouble to Admiral Dewey or to make any material change in the existing condition of affairs at Manila. The Colon is a troop ship. The Corondonga is a collier and also has troops aboard.

FRIDAY'S BATTLE AT SANTIAGO.

The Fighting Was of the Hardest Kind and the Troops Suffered Severely.

1,000 KILLED AND WOUNDED.

American Forces Stormed and Captured The Heights of San Juan and Advanced Nearly to the City--Fleet's Part in the Engagement.

[Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.]

SIBONEY, Province of Santiago de Cuba, July 1, 8 P. M., via Playa del Este (delayed in transmission).—At this hour the fighting still continues. The entire reserves of the American army have been ordered to the front at once, apparently with the intention of forcing our way into Santiago de Cuba. The troops have advanced nearly to the city, but the fortifications are very strong.

Our losses are heavy. An officer from the field estimates our killed and wounded at 1,000 men.

Shells, supposedly from the Spanish fleet, did heavy execution among our troops. During a lull in the fighting, an impressive incident occurred. The Twenty-first infantry was out in front and suffering loss from the Spanish fire, but the men sang "The Star Spangled Banner," even the wounded joining in the singing.

San Juan Heights Captured.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A copyrighted dispatch to the Evening World, dated "In the field, two miles from Santiago, July 1," and cabled from Playa del Este, says: "San Juan heights have fallen, and the way is now opened for an advance on Morro Castle. It was a glorious victory, but very dearly purchased.

"The place was the strongest Spanish outpost, well fortified and valiantly defended. The position was an excellent one. San Juan hill is steep, and an artillery battery was located on it. It was also occupied by barracks and other buildings. But the American troops stormed the heights and Spanish valor had to yield to the bull-dog tenacity and courage of the Anglo-Saxon.

"As I write, our troops are swarming up the hill and covering it like ants. The Spaniards are demoralized. The fighting has been of the hardest kind and our troops have suffered severely, but the enemy's works are in their hands and they do not count the cost. El Caney is also ours. The general advance, which began at 3 P. M., has been successful all along the line.

"After driving the enemy out of El Caney the troops took possession of the village and destroyed the Spanish fort by which it had been defended. The Spaniards fled into the city of Santiago, where they now are. The losses on both sides were heavy. A bursting Spanish shell almost annihilated an entire company of our troops."

With the Fleet.

OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 1, via Kingston, Jamaica, July 2, 8 A. M.—Before five o'clock this morning the crew of the flagship were astir, eating a hurried breakfast and at 5.50 "general quarters" was sounded and the flagship headed in toward Aguadores, about three miles east of Morro Castle. The other ships retained their blockading stations. Along the surf beaten shore the smoke of an approaching train from Altares was seen. It was composed of open cars full of General Duffield's troops. At the cut, a mile east of Aguadores, the train stopped and the Cuban scouts proceeded along the railroad track. The troops got out of the cars and soon formed in a long thin line, standing out vividly against the yellow rocks that rose perpendicularly above, shutting them off from the main body of the army, which is on the east side of the hill, several miles north.

From the quarter of the flagship there was a signal by a vigorously wig-wagged letter, and a few minutes later, from a lump of green at the water's edge, came an answer from the army. This was the first co-operation for offensive purposes betwen the army and navy. With the flag in his hand the soldier ashore looked like a butterfly.

"Are you waiting for us to begin?" was the signal made by Rear Admiral Sampson to the army. "Gen. Duffield is ahead with the scouts," came the answer from the shore to the flagship.

By this time it was 7 o'clock and the Admiral ran the flagship's bow within three-quarters of a mile of the beach. She remained almost as near during the forenoon and the daring way she was handled by Captain Chadwick within sound of the breakers made the Cuban pilot on board stare with astonishment. The Suwanee was in company with the flagship, still closer in shore, and the Gloucester was to the westward, near Morro Castle. From the southward the Newark came up and took a position to the westward. Her decks were black with 1,600 or more troops. She went alongside of the flagship and was told to disembark the troops at Alcires.

Then Admiral Sampson signalled to General Duffield: "When do you want us to commence firing?" In a little while a white flag on shore sent back the answer: "When the rest of the command arrives. Then I will signal you."

It was a long and tedious wait for the ships before the second fifty carloads of troops came puffing along from Altares. By 9.30 the last of the soldiers had left the open railroad cars, disappearing in the thick brush that covered the eastern side of Aguadores inlet. The water in the sponge tubs under the breeches of the big guns was growing hot in the burning sun. Ashore there was no sign of the enemy. They were believed to be on the western bluff.

Between the bluffs runs a rocky gully leading into Santiago city. On the extremity of the western arm was an old casttelated fort, from which the Spanish flag was flying and on the parapet on the eastern hill commanding the gully two stretches of red earth could easily be seen against the brush. These were the rifle pits.

Firing Begun.

At 10:15 a signal flag ashore wig-wagged to Admiral Sampson to commence firing and a minute later the New York's guns blazed away at the rifle pits and at the old fort. The Suwanee and Gloucester joined in the echoes which rumbled around and filled the gully. All the stored-up thunder of the clouds seemed to have broken loose, and smoke soon rose over the hills and the gully was shut out from view. Then the firing became more deliberate.

Hammering the Rifle Pits.

Of our troops ashore in the brush nothing could be seen, but the "ping," "ping," of the small arms of the army floated out to sea during the occasional lull in the firing of the big guns which peppered the rifle pits until clouds of red earth arose above them.

An eight-inch shell from the Newark dropped in the massive old fort and clouds of white dust and huge stones filled the air. When the small shells hit its battlements, almost hidden by green creepers, fragments of masonry came tumbling down. A shot from the Suwanee hit the eastern parapet and it crumbled away like a mummy exposed to the air after long years. Amid the smoke and debris the flagstaff was seen to fall forward. "The flag has been shot down," shouted the ship's crew; but when the smoke cleared away the emblem of Spain was seen to be still flying and blazing brilliantly in the sun, though the flagstaff was bending toward the earth. Apparently the flagstaff had been caught firmly in the wreckage of the fort.

Suwanee's Good Practice.

A few more shots levelled the battlements until the old castle was a pitiful sight. When the firing ceased, Lieutenant Delhanty of the Suwanee was anxious to finish his work, so he signalled to the New York asking permission to knock down the Spanish flag. "Yes," replied Admiral Sampson, "if you can do it in three shots." The Suwanee then lay about 1,600 yards from the old fort. She took her time. Lieutenant Blue carefully aimed the four-inch gun and the crews of all the ships watched the incident amid intense excitement. When the smoke of the Suwanee's first shot cleared away, only two red streamers of the flag were left. The shell had gone through the centre of the bunting.

A delightful yell broke from the crew of the Suwanee. Two or three minutes later the Suwanee fired again. A huge cloud of debris rose from the base of the flagstaff. For a few seconds it was impossible to tell what had been the effect of the shot. Then it was seen the shell had only added to the ruin of the fort.

The flagstaff seemed to have a charmed existence, and the Suwanee had only one chance left. It seemed hardly possible for her to achieve her object with the big gun at such a distance and such a tiny target. There was breathless silence among the watching crews. They crowded on the ships' decks and all eyes were on that tattered rag, bending toward the earth from the top of what once had been a grand old castle. But it was only bending, not yet down. Lieutenant Commander Delhanty and Lieutenant Blue took their time. The Suwanee changed her position slightly. Then a puff of smoke shot out from her side, and up went a spouting cloud of debris from the parapet and down fell the banner of Spain.

Such yells from the flagship will probably never be heard again. There was more excitement than is witnessed at the finish of a college boat race or a popular race between first-class thoroughbreds on some big track. The Suwanee's last shot had struck right at the base of the flagstaff and had blown it clear of the wreckage which had held it.

"Well done," signalled Admiral Sampson to Lieutenant Commander Delhanty.

At 11.30 General Duffield signalled that his scouts reported that no damage had been done to the Spanish rifle pits by the shells from the ships, and Admiral Sampson told him they had been hit several times but there was no one in the pits. However, the Suwanee was ordered to fire a few more shots in their direction.

At 12.18 P. M. the New York having discontinued firing at Aguadores, commenced firing 8-inch shells clear over the gully into the city of Santiago de Cuba. Every five minutes the shells went roaring over the hill side. What destruction they wrought it was impossible to tell, as the bluffs hid everything.

In reply to General Duffield's question, "What is the news," Admiral Sampson replied: "There is not a Spaniard left in the rifle pits." Later, General Duffield signalled that his scouts thought reinforcements were marching to the battered old fort and Admiral Sampson wig-wagged him: "There are no Spaniards left there. If any come, the Gloucester will take care of them."

A little later the Oregon joined the New York in sending 8-inch shells into the city of Santiago.

This was kept up until 1.40 P. M. By that time General Duffield had sent a message saying his troops could not cross the stream and would return to Altares.

On the report that some Spanish troops were still in the gully, the New York and Gloucester shelled it once more, and the Newark, which had not fired, signalled: "Can I fire for target practice. Have had no previous opportunity." Permission for her to do so was signalled and she blazed away, shooting well, her six-inch shells exploding with remarkable force among the rocks.

At 2:40 P. M., Admiral Sampson hoisted the signal to cease firing and the flagship returned to the blockading station.

On the railroad a train load of troops had already left for Altares.

Spaniards Drawing Back at all Points.

[Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.]

HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, OUTSIDE SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 2, via Guantanamo.—The American army drove the Spaniards back at every point in an all day engagements yesterday. Caney will be taken with 2,000 prisoners. It is now surrounded. Our loss is probably close to a thousand. The total proportion of killed is very large, about twenty-five per cent. One part of the line of the American forces slept on captured ground and will renew the fight at sunrise.

A hot day is expected.

The Sixth cavalry captured the first Spanish flag.

Captain Parkhurst's battery last night commanded the east side of Santiago from a hill. The eastern line of defence is practically wrecked.

The fighting yesterday was steady, though the Americans were embarrassed by the heavy brush. The Spaniards made a brave but spasmodic resistance. Much of the Spanish firing was by volley, while ours was mostly at will, each bullet being aimed at a special target. It is impossible to estimate the Spanish loss.

The hospital service is admirable though lacking sufficient accommodation.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CONTEST.

Cornell Won the Freshman and Pennsylvania the University Race.

SARATOGA, July 2.—The freshmen and 'Varsity races of the intercollegiate rowing association were rowed over two and three mile courses today, respectively. The Cornell freshmen won the first contest in 10.51 3-5, three and one-half lengths ahead of Columbia, who finished second.

Pennsylvania, pulling the only paper-shell used in the contest, won the 'Varsity race by three and one-half lengths in the remarkably good time of 15.51½.

Cornell got into second place after a lively sprint with Wisconsin, leading the Westerners nearly a length. Columbia paddled across the line four and a half lengths behind Wisconsinr

GREAT ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON.

Tidings from Gen. Shafter Eagerly Awaited and Momentarily Expected.

GREAT BATTLE IN PROGRESS.

A Brief Dispatch Direct From the Field of Action at 4 P. M.—American Losses Heavy—No Advices From Admiral Sampson.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—This has been a day of almost unparalleled suspense and anxiety. From President McKinley down, through all official Washington, everybody has been under a tremendous strain. Tidings from Shafter have been eagerly awaited and momentarily expected, but save a brief word on the extent of the loss yesterday, nothing came from him during the day concerning the progress of the action at Santiago.

Just at the close of the day the first bit of information coming directly to officials reached the President and Sectary Alger. It was a private dispatch, not primarily intended for them, although it came through official channels. Briefly and expressively it told the story of a day of terrific fighting. It was direct from the field of action, and was as late as 4 P. M. It stated that the engagement had been in progress throughout to-day; that the dead and wounded were being carried to the rear, and that the American losses were heavy. The exact wording of the dispatch was not made known, but one of the high officials who read it said that it conveyed to him the idea of extreme tension and of a battle in which all the fiercest elements of warfare prevailed.

Battle Still in Progress.

Until this came the officials were positively without a word as to whether the engagement begun yesterday was continued to-day. They could only speculate; some taking the view that the assault yesterday had been followed to-day by a storming of the city itself, others maintaining that Shafter's troops, spent with the terrible strain of yesterday, had paused long enough to clear the field of the dead and wounded. It was only by this brief private message, which under ordinary circumstances would have received little attention, that the President and his advisers were made aware that the battle was still in progress and still without definite issue. As it was, the few words relieved the suspense but not the anxiety. Others were far less hopeful in their views. That the battle was still raging meant that our men were passing through a fearful ordeal, having been in action now practically for thirty-six hours. The mere fact that the dispatch did not chronicle a decisive advantage by the American forces was construed by some officials as ominous.

Nothing From Admiral Sampson.

Secretary Long said at the close of office hours that nothing had come from Admiral Sampson, and in particular the secretary of the navy dismissed as groundless the rumor that word had reached him that Morro Castle had been demolished by the American squadron. General Miles was similarly without advices. At 3 o'clock he joined Secretary Alger in the latter's office and the two conferred for a long time on the military situation. Neither the secretary nor the commanding general underestimate the great task before the American army, with an enemy well entrenched in front of them, with Cervera's guns pouring shot and shell into our lines, and with the possibility that Spanish reinforcements have now swelled the ranks of the enemy until they are greater than the combined forces under the American military commander. But all that the government in Washington can do is being done and done quickly. The great issue remains for General Shafter and his forces to work out to a conclusion.

Aid for the Wounded.

The call early in the day for a large additional force of medical officers was quickly responded to. The hospital ship Relief which left New York to-day was given orders before sailing to stop on her way South at Fort Monroe, where the extra force of surgeons will board her. She will reach Fort Monroe to-morrow, and take on board the physicians immediately and then proceed hurriedly to the aid of the wounded under Shafter's command.

Surgeon General Sternberg, of the army, was unable to make arrangements to-day for all the medical assistance which General Shafter asked for. After considerable labor he got together a force of probably a dozen physicians, and these, with the surgeons already aboard the vessel, will approximate about twenty in all. These General Sternberg hopes will be enough to supply the pressing wants of the army. The Relief should reach Santiago in four or five days. If additional physicians are needed they will be sent, General Sternberg says, on the cruiser Yale, which is scheduled to leave Norfolk about the middle of next week with a large detachment of General Garrelson's brigade as reinforcements to Shafter. The personnel of the surgical corps of the Relief, so far as they could be ascertained here to-day, is as follows: Major Geo. N. Torney, surgeon in charge; Mack Bradley, surgeon, U. S. V.; Lieut. Col. Nicholas Senn, of Chicago; Capt. Wm. C. Gorgas, and the following contract surgeons: Francis Metcalfe, Randolph M. Myers, Fred. M. Hartsock, Earnest C. Schultz, Geo. N. Torney, Jr., Jno. R. Hicks, Henry L. Brown, Jas. T. Arwinne, Jesse Ransburg, Ruphus D. Boss, A. A. Snyder, Chas. C. Marbury, Jas. Mack Malla, Sr., and Stanley Warren.

During the afternoon a sensational rumor gained currency that radical changes in the plans for the occupation of Cuba were likely to be adopted by President McKinley. It can be said upon the highest authority, however, that nothing of the kind is in contemplation.

Moore Troops to Go to Cuba.

The intimation that General Miles may soon leave Washington for some point where action is expected, is likely to prove true, but as yet it is nothing more tangible than a rumor. It is the very evident purpose of the war officials to send more troops to Cuba as soon as possible. In response to a message sent to General Shafter, two days ago, a reply was received that the transports now off Santiago would be sent back to Key West at the earliest moment. The transports are needed to convey the additional troops to Cuba—troops that are evidently intended to reinforce Shafter's command.

Suspicious Case of Fever.

Word reaches the Marine Hospital Service to day that a suspicious case, possibly one of yellow fever, had developed at the Navy Hospital at Key West, the patient being a sailor from the auxiliary ship Yankee. The facts were reported to the Navy Department and an inquiry was at once instituted by the surgeon general of the navy. He is not apprehensive on the subject, as the latest reports from the hospital show no evidences of yellow fever, and it is probable that the case is nothing more than one having suspicious symptoms.

Commodore Watson's Fleet.

Secretary Long stated to-night that no change had been made in the naval programme. Commodore Watson's fleet, he said, would sail for Spain in a few days, even should Camara's squadron return to that country.

GREAT ANXIETY IN MADRID.

No Official Advices of the Attack on Santiago—The Situation at Manila Continues Critical.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

MADRID, July 2, 4 P. M.—In the absence of an official dispatch giving details of the attack on Santiago de Cuba the newspapers expres great anxiety, which is increased by the report that no reinforcements have reached the besieged city from Manzanillo or Holguin. The papers complain of the extreme brevity of the Spanish advices, "leaving all Europe at the mercy of American exaggerations."

Every one here seems to feel that the decisive game is being played around Santiago de Cuba and that the fall of that city cannot fail to affect the very existence of the government here; but thus far, perfect tranquility prevails.

The Madrid newspapers also severely censure the return of the three Spanish torpedo boat destroyers and the two coal-laden trans-Atlantic steamers, which are said to be at Port Said, and much indignation is expressed at the time lost by Admiral Camara's fleet in Egyptian waters.

4.30 P. M.—A dispatch was received here to-day from Gen. Augusti, dated Manila, June 26th, via Hong Kong, in which he says:

"The situation continues as critical as announced in my telegram of June 15th. Fifteen German, French, Japanese and British war vessels are anchored in the bay. Through them there is frequent communication with Hong Kong. Gen. Monet, after fighting several battles, has arrived at Macabore with 1,000 men, where he is entrenched. In the event of the enemy advancing on the capital, I have ordered Gen. Monet to force his way through to my help, though I regard such an operation as difficult."

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Hawaiian Debate—Bill Passed Fixing Pay of Volunteer Soldiers From Time of Enlistment.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—To-day's session of the Senate was devoted chiefly to the Hawaiian debate, Senator Pettigrew, silver Republican, of South Dakota, occupying five hours. An effort was made to secure an agreement to adjourn until Tuesday, but Senator Davis, in charge of the resolutions, declined to listen to the proposition unless an agreement to vote next week upon the resolutions could be entered. This, Senator White, to to whom Seuator Davis addressed himself, said he considered impossible.

The following House bills were passed: Fixing the pay of volunteer soldiers from the date of enrollment for service; to change the time for holding courts in the Eastern Districts of North Carolina. Also, the Senate bill amending the laws relating to American seamen for their protection and to promote commerce. The chief features of the latter are the elimination of all imprisonment provisions in the coastwise trade, including Mexican and West Indian; the reduction of penalties in the foreign trade; the improvement of the provision scales, and the reduction of allotment to one month.

At 5:28 P. M., the Senate adjourned to Monday.

THE SITUATION AT SANTIAGO.

Fighting Resumed Yesterday Morning and Continued All Day Without Result.

AMERICAN LOSS VERY HEAVY.

Spanish Reinforcements Marching to Attack Americans—Morro Castle Bombarded—Belief that Operations Will Last a Long Time.

[Copyrighted 1898 by the Associated Press.]

GUANTANAMO, July 2.—The fighting in front of Santiago was resumed at daylight this morning. An advance was ordered along the entire line.

SIBONEY, July 2, Noon, via Playa del Este.—At this hour the firing is light. Work on the entrenchments is being pushed and the soldiers are allowed to rest. The fleet did some firing, but did not engage the batteries generally.

Another Bombardment of the Batteries.

The bombardment of the forts at the entrance to Santiago harbor was resumed early this morning and lasted over an hour. The southeast corner of Morro Castle was knocked to pieces and the flag was shot down. The shore batteries to the west of the entrance and to the east of Morro Castle were also damaged. The return fire was light, except from Caya Smith, inside the harbor. No damage was done to the ships. The batteries fired at the ships as they retired.

The Situation Critical.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The last official news is to the effect that the Americans suffered an enormous loss in the attack upon El Caney and Aguidores. General Linares is concentrating his troops toward the defensive works around the town, where he hopes to overthrow the American forces. Meanwhile the Spaniards from Guantanamo effected a meeting at Altaconge with the reinforcements from Holguin, making 8,000 men who are now marching to fall upon the Americans' right flank, and they can give General Shafter much trouble.

General Pando, with 9,000 men is now at Romanganagua and Palma Soriano. It is the general belief that the Santiago operations will last a long time.

The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, decreased $192,700: loans, increased $8,384,700; specie, increased $1,963,300; legal tenders, increased $975,700; deposits, increased $12,526,900; circulation, decreased $6,600. The banks now hold $62,013,550 in excess of the legal requirements.

CAPE HORN CRACK SHOTS.

The Wonderful Marksmanship Displayed by the Yahgans and Onas.

It may be as well to refer to some other tribes about Cape Horn which attracted the attention of Professor Hatcher. For example may be mentioned the Yahgans, who live nearer to the south pole than any other known people. They occupy certain small islands lying south of Tierra del Fuego and are found also on the south beach of that great island itself. The territory they occupy is a maze of mountain peaks, and the conditions under which they exist are almost beyond realization by a civilized person.

The typical weapon of the Yahgans is the rawhide sling, with which they are able to kill waterfowl afloat at 200 yards. To hit any bird at that distance would be called right good shooting. They can knock down and stun a guanaco with a heavy round pebble up to 100 yards. The reason for the sling as a tool of destruction is found in the fact that the Yahgans live on the beaches, where plenty of round pebbles are always at hand. These islanders try out oil from whale blubber and store it for future use in the bladderlike leaves of a kind of seaweed found everywhere in that region.

Quite distinct and peculiar is the Ona tribe, which inhabits the prairie region of Tierra del Fuego. This great island has the shape of a triangle and is almost as large as the state of New York. Once upon a time it must have had a tropical climate, inasmuch as the bones of monkeys and parrots are found fossil there in great numbers.

The Onas have no horses. They eat those they capture from the sheep men, considering horse meat the greatest of delicacies. They depend for food chiefly upon the guanaco, which abounds in Tierra del Fuego, and a kind of prairie squirrel. In the chase they rely mainly upon bows and arrows and the bolas, the latter consisting of two or three stone balls on the end of hide thongs. On being thrown, the balls diverge in obedience to centrifugal force and fly round and round in the air until the object is struck, when the thongs wind themselves about it. These savages can throw the bolas so dexterously as to fasten a man to his horse. The Onas, however, often kill the guanaco by surrounding a bunch and running them down, so wonderfully fleet of foot are they.—Boston Transcript.

Zola's Proposed Lecture Tour.

It is reported that M. Zola has agreed to come to the United States and deliver about 15 lectures, relating probably to anti-Semitism in France and to the trials of Dreyfus and himself. The arrangement is asserted to have been made with Mr. Edmund Gerson of New York and to have followed immediately upon the decision of the French government to grant M. Zola an appeal from the sentence of imprisonment lately pronounced upon him. An interesting detail of this report is that a sum approaching $60,000 is promised to M. Zola for his visit. One could wish perhaps that that detail had been omitted. M. Zola would undoubtedly excite great interest here and would draw full houses, but he most interests Americans at present in his character, lately assumed, of patriot and protestant against prejudice and injustice, and interest based on grounds of that sort is hardly suitable for conversion into cash. It is possible, however, that his recent experiences have been costly, and that he has more than ordinary need of money.—Harper's Weekly.
